

DEFENSE OFFERS FIRST EVIDENCE

State Rests at Noon in Trial of Fred Clevenger For Subornation of Perjury

WILL GO TO JURY THURSDAY

Plea of General Denial That He Sought to Buy State Witness
Expected of Defendant

The defense started on the case this afternoon in the circuit court, in which Fred Clevenger is on trial for subornation of perjury, and the case is expected to end some time Thursday, which will be the fourth day of the trial.

The state finished up with their portion of the evidence at noon today, and after the noon recess, the defense began to introduce witnesses, and placing their side of the case before the jury, and the special judge, Fred C. Gause of Newcastle.

The defense started with practically the same kind of evidence as used in the liquor law violation case, attempting to disprove the theory of a sale of liquor by Clevenger to Fritch, maintaining an alibi at the time of the alleged transaction.

A plea of general denial is expected to be the testimony of the defendant on his charge of inducing and commanding the state's witness, Fritch, to testify falsely at the former trial. It is expected that he will deny all of the charges made by the state, in which they maintain that he left $50 at the Fritch home to have the witness change his testimony, and several other things which the state has attempted to prove were done at the command of the defense.

The state is believed to have covered their ground thoroughly in the case, after having had many witnesses on the stand, many of whom gave practically the same testimony as in the liquor violation cases.

The defense had possibly ten witnesses summoned this afternoon, and there was a possibility of all of the evidence being completed today, but most of Thursday morning will be taken up with the arguments of the attorneys.

Many witnesses were used by the state Tuesday afternoon, when they attempted to show the jury that the defendant had been guilty of using his influence in preventing Fritch from appearing as a witness in the second trial of the liquor law violation case, in which Clevenger was found guilty.

W. E. Sparks, prosecutor of Fayette county, Connorsville, appeared as a witness and stated that in December last year, Clevenger came to him in company with Mae Stevens, also of Connorsville, and secured a warrant for the arrest of Fritch on a larceny charge in connection with the theft of a ring, which was alleged to have belonged to Mrs. Stevens.

The Fayette county prosecutor stated that Clevenger was anxious to have Fritch arrested at once, and told the prosecutor that Fritch had got him in trouble at Rushville. The officer stated that the police chief of Connorsville came over to arrest Fritch, but the arrest was not made, and the case "died" for lack of prosecution.

Mrs. Stevens stated that one day in December, Fred Clevenger, the defendant, came to her house at Connorsville and stated that he could produce 4 or 5 witnesses who had seen a pawn ticket in Fritch's hands, that called for a diamond ring, and she went with him to the prosecutor's office to have a charge preferred. She said that Clevenger told her that she would not have to go to any expense in the case.

Mrs. Stevens on cross examination stated that her ring was stolen a year ago, and that at the time Fritch was a boarder in her house, and that she had suspected him, but he had always denied the theft.

Homer Smalley of Indianapolis, a former operative for the Webster detective agency at Indianapolis, also appeared as a witness for the state and recognized Clevenger as the person who had hired him to "plant" liquor in the Fritch home in Indianapolis and then summon the police for a raid. Smalley also was arrested and has a case pending.

'CLARENCE' GIVEN BY CAPABLE CAST

Specimen of Youthful Histronics
Speeds Along to Entire Satisfaction of Big Crowd

2ND PERFORMANCE TONIGHT

Glen Somerville Acts Role of Clarence Well And is Ably Supported
By Classmates

With a very capable cast, the well known Tarkington comedy "Clarence" was presented by the high school senior class at the Graham Annex auditorium Tuesday night, and those who went to be amused were in no wise disappointed because this specimen of youthful histronics sped along so smoothly that it was easy to forget that the production was strictly amateur, without a tinge of even semi-professionalism.

Clarence, who was shot in the liver in target practice, but never got out of Texas, during the war, with his unwitting humor, his saxophone and all, was well represented by Glen Somerville, who played the title role in a very satisfactory manner. He was very ably supported by other members of the cast, notably William Pugh (Bobby Wheeler) and Kathryn Blount (Corra Wheeler) both of whom served as a foil to Clarence's unexpected brilliancy.

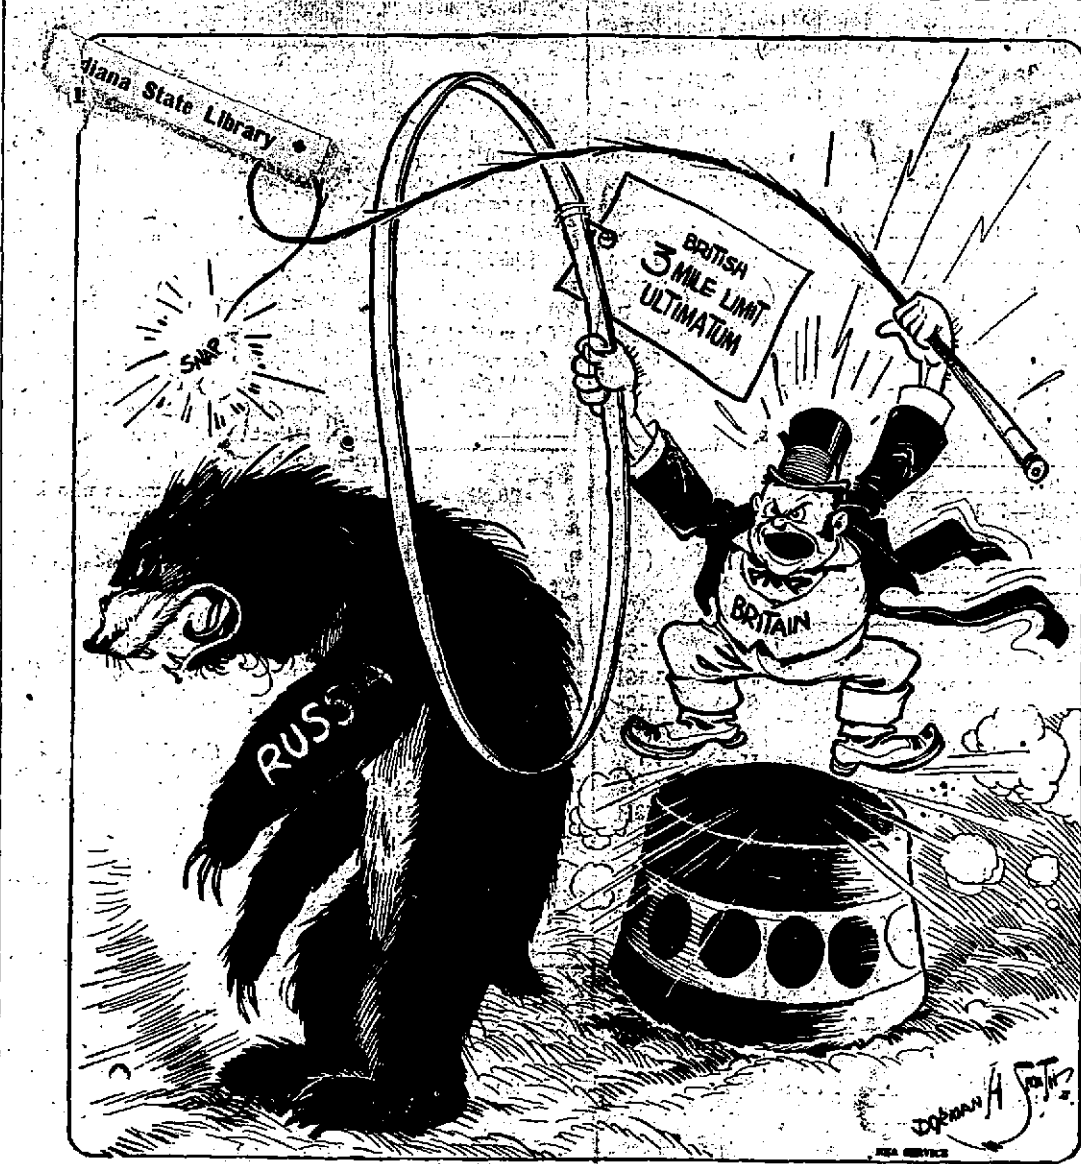

The story of the play is too well known to be repeated in any detail, having been seen frequently on the stage and in moving pictures. It deals with the familiar returned soldier and his temporary employment in the home of the twentieth century species of the "tired business man" who has spent all of his time making money and none to rearing his family; with the manner in which Clarence, his real identity unintentionally concealed, unwittingly straightens out the crabbed family life, revives a dead trustfulness and finally departs, when his eminence as a "bugologist" is revealed, as the prospective husband of Corra's governess, the storm-center of all the tribulations of the family, each member of which honestly believes that his or her burdens are more than can be borne.

A crowded house showed considerably more than the customary appreciation for a local production, and the opinion that "Clarence" was the best class play in several years was very generally accepted. It will be repeated tonight and the attendance will be equally as large as the first night, according to the advance seat sale.

Robert Gantner as the harassed Mr. Wheeler, father of the girlishly impetuous Corra and the frequently expelled Bobby, husband of a jealous wife (Norma O'Neil) and possessed of a fast growing desire to throw up the job and leave "the family" on its own resources, expressed in word and action the sentiments of the tribe of fathers. In every way honorable, but with a misguided desire to supply his children with all they could wish, Wheeler is further tempted to desert the household, when Clarence becomes a member, his employment having been agreed to because of his own recommendation that he could drive mules without swearing.

Gantner was adequate to his role, and an even better fitness of things.

Clara Phillips, "Hammer" Murderess," And Jesse Carson Expected to Become Dictators

WERE PROVIDED WITH $80,000

Planned to Overthrow Government of Honduras, According to Confessions by Both

By HERMAN ROBELTO

(Copyright 1923 by United Press)
Tegucigalpa, Honduras, May 23.—Clara Phillips, "hammer murderess," fled to Honduras in the belief that the government would be overthrown and that she and Jesse Carson, her "husband" would emerge from the revolution as dictators of the country.

This was revealed by Mrs. Phillips today in her first story of her jail break and remarkable flight across Mexico, exclusively obtained by the United Press. Walking out of Los Angeles county jail "under the nose of the guard" she escaped to Mexico, joined Carson and was captured by Mexican rebels, liberated, hid in a wild volcanic region, and finally started for Honduras with a fund of $80,000, while a steamer loaded with munitions followed her down the coast. But the plot by which the "tiger woman" was to have been set up as "the first lady of the land" was frustrated, and she found herself in a cell, arrested for extradition to California to serve her time for beating Mrs. Alberta Meadows to death with a hammer in a fit of jealous rage.

Carson, in a statement to the Honduras authorities today, made a full confession of his part in the conspiracy to tear down the existing government. He said many Americans were involved in the plot, which was directed from Vera Cruz.

Mrs. Phillips also made a free statement of her part in it. She came here from Mexico, she said, in the firm belief that the revolution would be successful, and that unlimited power and money would be hers.

Starting her story at the beginning, Mrs. Phillips said: "My escape was easy. There was nothing sensational about it. I fled, some of the bars of the prison and quietly left, passing right under the noses of the guards."

Capt. W. B. Brann Announces Stringent Measures Will Be Used
Those Who Fail To Drill

INSPECTOR VISITS COMPANY

On and after Tuesday, May 29, any member of Company C, 151st Infantry, Indiana National Guard, of this city, who is not present for drill practice and has no legitimate excuse for his absence, will be confined to jail for five days on each offense, William B. Brann, captain announced today.

The announcement came on the heels of a visit, Tuesday night, of Cordie, technical sergeant, from the inspector general's department. Tuesday nights is the time for the regular drill practice of the company.

According to a new military law passed by the Indiana general assembly, a member of the Indiana National Guard confined to jail for failure to attend drill practice, must "do his time" and no one has any authority to release him except the commanding officer, Captain Brann stated.

It is stated that members of Company C have been very lax in their attendance at the weekly drill and some stringent measures were deemed necessary to bring them into line.

ALLEGED SLAYER ESCAPES

John Whitfield Of Cleveland In Dash
For Liberty At Madison, Wis.

(By United Press)

Madison, Wis., May 23.—John Whitfield, alleged slayer of a Cleveland, Ohio, policeman, was sought throughout Wisconsin today following his capture from authorities here last night.

Whitfield in company with a woman who said she was from Fort Wayne, Ind., submitted quietly to arrest when recognized by a restaurant proprietor who summoned the police. Once outside the cafe however, he jerked loose and dashed behind a street car and up an alley to liberty amid shots from police revolvers.

As Whitfield fled, the woman who accompanied him slipped from the restaurant and induced a passing student to walk with her. Her attempt to escape was unsuccessful, however, and she was taken to the police station. The two were to have been married today, she said.

Papers of each student also was on display and drawings were made in red and blue ink for contrast.

In A. M. Taylor's mathematics display there were maps of Rush and kinds, ranging from blue prints county and Indiana, in many colors to water coloring. Many students showed real skill in this work. They were traced first from another map and then filled in.

Miss Thelma Hunsinger, freshman and sophomore English teacher had in her room a variety of scrap books, attractive advertisements, letter forms and other work done in English this year. There was also a full display of blank check forms, bills, drafts and the like, showing how to make them out, correctly. IS ADVISED NOT TO PAY RANSOM

President Harding Also Urged Not to Deal Directly With Bandits
Holding Americans

IS SHOWING MUCH CONCERN

He And Other Officials Have Sense of Helplessness—No News of Threat Being Carried Out

(By United Press)

Washington, May 23.—President Harding has been strongly advised against directly dealing with the Chinese bandits or payment by the United States of the ransom demanded for relief of foreign captives. This advice comes from one of his ablest cabinet members.

If the United States sets this precedent, Americans will either have to get out of China or be constantly subject to kidnapping by bandits, the president has been told.

Harding also has been informed by this adviser that military intervention would be a tremendous task likely to involve this government very deeply. No fewer than 35,000 troops would be of any use and even then it would be next to impossible to run down the bandits in the desolate mountainous country they inhabit.

Harding is tremendously concerned. He with other officials here has a sense of helplessness against China's inertia. He has tried to find some short cut some way to cut the knot but none has appeared. While his immediate concern is over the fate of the Americans, now held and threatened with death by the brigands, he feels that "the Chinese problem" is rapidly coming to a point where its solution must be found if the world peace is not to be menaced.

Pekin, May 23.—The diplomatic corps is tensely awaiting news as to whether the Shantung bandits killed two of their captives last night, in execution of their threat.

M. Bernbe, the Frenchman who brought the threat from the brigands camp, returned to their stronghold to ascertain what had occurred. He carried no reply to the menacing message.

If the prisoners have been slain, it is expected the powers will be forced to act directly against the outlaws.

FOSDICK CASE FINAL TEST

Definite Action On This Doctrinaire Question In Presbyterian Assembly Due Today

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—"You dare not refuse to hear me. It was because you didn't dare suppress me that I have been allowed to speak," William Jennings Bryan thundered in the Presbyterian General Assembly today, when he suddenly sought to renew his fight against evolution and a commissioner suggested that the convention had spent enough time on that subject.

The commoner threw down the gage of battle while the report of a special committee on seminaries was making a report which had been expected to pass without opposition.

"Our religion must be a real one, not a scientific one," he pleaded with the assembly. "We will soon reach the climax when we decide that a preacher may call Christ a son of Joseph and not the son of God."

Bryan gained a partial victory and his amendments, relatively unimportant, were adopted.

The committee on selection of a meeting place for next year has under consideration Grand Rapids, Mich., San Francisco, Atlantic City and Baltimore.

The assembly adopted resolutions endorsing President Harding's world court plan as the most important step toward world peace. Closer relationship with the other nations was asked in this resolution.

Indications are that the committee on bills and adventures will recommend that the famous Fosdick case be left to the committee from the New York Presbytery which has been investigating the case.

This would mean that action by the assembly would be delayed until the New York committee reports at the next assembly.

A minority report recommending drastic action was also expected.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—Hurt to the heart by the refusal of the Presbyterian general assembly to approve his fight against Darwinism, William Jennings Bryan, undaunted by defeat, was ready today to make one final effort to preserve the "faith of the fathers" against the inroads of a liberalism which he believes is at times tinged with heresy.

The signal for the last stand of the ultraconservatives will be the action of the bills and overtures committee on the Philadelphia overture asking that Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick be prevented from preaching in the pulpit of the First Presbyterian Church New York City.

Definite action on this doctrinaire question, one of the most important issues before the assembly this year, is expected today after much delay on the part of the Bills and overtures committee, while the assembly was feeling its way to a test of strength between the liberals and ultra-conservatives, headed by Bryan.

That test came yesterday, when after long debate and impassioned oratory, the assembly voted down the resolution offered by Bryan to banish teaching of evolution from all sectarian schools supported by Presbyterian funds.

The result, all church leaders agreed, was a clean-cut victory for the liberals over the ultra-conservatives. The vote which overwhelmed the Bryan resolution was a four to one victory for the liberals, according to the count made by Rev. Lewis S. Mudge, clerk of the assembly.

"The action of the assembly in rejecting Bryan's resolution was a signal victory for freedom of expression in the Presbyterian church," declared Dr. James Clement Reed, of San Francisco, one of the church leaders working to keep the reactionists from getting in the saddle.

"It would have been little short of a tragedy for the assembly to have adopted the Bryan resolution, since the Presbyterian church has been prize fights to educational lectures. In Mrs. Mary Glessner's English display there were many newspaper, representative papers of the time of Hamlet and Macbeth, displaying news of a nature that is quite unique to modern observers. There also was a stage plot and property lists compiled by the Junior class on plays that they have been working on this year.

An interesting display was made by Miss Bertha Adams, Latin instructor, in which there was posted a list of English words derived from Latin. The different displays showed the derivation of English words from Latin in different sciences, advertisements and the like, such as physiology, botany, advertising, mathematics, music. One of the cleverest exhibits were the Latin primers and the old Latin school. A Latin word study in cartoons was well constructed.
The largest exhibit in the building was the one on domestic science in charge of Miss Nell Jones, in that had been done during the year. The work was representative of the work was representatives of 12A, 9A, 7A and 7B classes and consisted of a variety of dresses, blouses, aprons, etc., of many different lines and varieties. The work looked quite professional and not amateurish as is usually the case with the high school pupils. No display was made on cooking because the class had furnished the cooking part at the Junior-Senior reception.
The art room was very beautifully decorated for the exhibit by Miss Henrietta Coleman, the supervisor, and the room consisted of a big variety of Batik work, artificial flowers, colored border work and the like. The Batik work especially displayed the talent of the pupils. Cartoons were displayed that would make some of the best in their line look twice to discover the difference from the original.
Miss Gertrude Wilkinson, commercial teacher, displayed typewriting note books containing all of each student's work for the year. Medals and diplomas won by the students during the year for strides made in their work are also on view.
H. W. Jones, and E. B. Butler, botany and science teachers, had a display of botany note books containing 50 flowers with a description of each.
Papers of the Junior high school pupils and also crayon drawings of maps were on display.
Kokomo — About 100 workmen have come into the city as the result of a visit made by O. C. Phillips, examiner of the city-state fire employment bureau.

difficult for me to leave Los Angeles and enter Mexico. There I met Jesse Carson, and my sister, Mrs. Etta May Jackson.
"There we were captured by Mexican revolutionists. We were held for several days and we did not know what they intended to do with us.
"We were liberated, the Mexicans left us at a place near the American border. We sought refuge in a wild, desolate volcanic region. It was peopled only by wild animals—no human beings or houses.
"We suffered many hardships, but finally reached Mexico City, where I thought we would be safe. But this man Carson is a savage. He talked freely of who we were, and told me it would be necessary for us to continue on to Honduras where I would be perfectly safe.
"Then Carson told me that it was best for us to go to Tegucigalpa as the government was to be overthrown.
"We would then have power and money, he said. Our safety would be absolutely assured, he pointed out, because we would be in control of the government.
"So we came here, but something seemed to have gone wrong. There were counter orders issued, and instead of seizing the national palace, we found ourselves arrested."

Buy 57 Head of High Grade Holsteins And Put Them Out at Costs to Farmers TRANSACTION AT MONON, IND.
Monon, Ind., May 23.—The Farmers and Traders Bank of Monon, has taken a big step toward building up the dairy business in this section by purchasing 57 head of high grade Holsteins and putting them out at cost to the farmers of the community.
The cattle were purchased after J. S. Minch, president and J. J. Horner, cashier of the bank and county Agent A. R. Fraser had made a personal inspection trip to Wisconsin.
The shipment of 57 head was distributed to farmers recently, and the proposition has aroused so much interest that arrangements are being made to bring another shipment in.
Finding that the farmers who had a few cows were getting milk checks as a steady source of income had gone through the recent business depression better than the straight grain farmers the bankers decided to foster the dairy industry.
Cream milk will be sold and the skim milk fed to hogs on most of the farms.
Along with the dairy campaign, efforts will be made to grow legume hay for feed, such as soy beans, clover or alfalfa.

Results of Second Examination For Eighth Year Graduates

Five out of the 15 eighth year students passed the second examination to enter high school next fall, B. D. Farthing, county school superintendent, stated today after grading the papers of the test which was held here last Saturday. A list is now being prepared of all eighth year graduates and will be published in a few days.
Mr. Farthing also wished to call attention today to the fact that the regular teacher's examination would be held in the court house on Saturday, and it is expected that there will be many applicants for the test.

MOVING THE NATION'S COMMERCE

ENEMIES of the railroads have asserted that they are decrepit, broken down and unable to function adequately. Nothing could be more untrue.
The railroads of the United States constitute an unrivaled monument to American genius. They are incomparably the finest, the best equipped and most efficiently operated in the world. They are successfully moving today the greatest volume of traffic in their history.
But the need for greatly enlarged transportation facilities to care for the constantly expanding commerce of the nation is urgent and immediate. American railroads recognize that need and have organized to meet it.
On the part of the Pennsylvania Railroad System it involves the expenditure in 1923 of approximately $100,000,000 for new facilities—improvements and additions—including the sum of $52,000,000 for new engines and cars alone.
This vast expenditure was decided upon in the face of the present high cost of material and operation because the Pennsylvania Railroad System in performing a national service is confident of the co-operation and support of the American people.

What Ohio State University Agricultural Extension Service Says About Minerals For Swine
"Relatively little has been said in the past about feeding mineral to hogs. But of late special attention is being given to this feature of feeding. The present trend of hog production is toward larger hogs. This being true, it takes more bone to support these heavier hogs. Stronger bone means that there must be more mineral matter supplied in the feed to produce it. Experiments show that in average hog feeds hogs do not secure enough mineral matter to produce sufficient bone, and it is more true in the growing of these larger present-day animals. The only way to meet this need, then, is to feed the hogs, especially growing pigs, some special mineral mixture."
The ACME MINERALS that we are manufacturing are made according to the complete Mineral Formula, with the nine different ingredients which was worked out at the Iowa Experimental Station by Prof. Evard, and we will ship to any farmer or feeder the nine different ingredients sacked separately and they may mix their own if they choose at the same price per hundred as the ready mix.
In buying your mineral mixture, be sure that you buy the complete Mineral Mixture with the nine different ingredients and beware of imitations.

was exemplified by the ease and grace with which Louise Innis carried through the part of Violet Pinney, who became at once the inspiration for four men—Wheeler, Stem, Bobby and Clarence—and the source of Mrs. Wheeler's jealousy, and who found her condition as governess for Cora so intolerable that she was compelled to resign. Clarence, at the same time, is recalled to his old position as an entomologist, and they leave together, but behind them are a much wiser Bobby and Cora and a happier husband and wife.

The play was bound to succeed because it is such a splendid vehicle for young folks in their teens. William Pugh and Kathryn Blount provided splendid interpretations of their parts as the quarrelsome brother and sister, both imagining that the other is without one ounce of brains and that each is the source of all the other's trouble. Miss Blount was convincingly impetuous, falling in love one day and out the next, only to find a new target for her endearing terms and her caresses the next. Pugh was wonderful as the youngster who felt that he had been raised to a higher spiritual plane by the love of a woman older than himself.

The parts of Della, the maid, played by Margaret Trader; Dinwiddie, the butler, by Deryl Case, and Mrs. Martyn, Wheeler's office girl, by Mary Wilson, although having a minor part in the story, were well taken. William Matlock as Hubert Stem, like all villains, wore a mustache, and his efforts to expose Clarence were foiled, but he acted the part very acceptably.

A musical program was given between the acts, the majority of the numbers being by an orchestra directed by Lois Steffy, a member of the graduating class. Leona Fletcher sang "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses", with Mrs. George Hogsett at the piano, and responded with an encore when the audience applauded its appreciation.

The play was under the direction of Mrs. Mary Glessner, whose ability as a director was responsible in a large measure for the smoothness of the production.

BRYAN IS READY FOR LAST EFFORT

known throughout its history for its approval of liberal education.

"The action of the assembly yesterday, coupled with that of rejecting Mr. Bryan's candidacy last week, emphatically refutes the accusation that the Presbyterian church is reactionary."

"When Mr. Bryan hints that the defeat of his resolution was due to any machine politics he makes a statement which reflects on his own sense of veracity."

The assembly passed a substitute motion offered by Dr. John Willis Baer of Pasadena, Cal., instructing synods and presbyteries to exercise a "careful oversight over the instruction given in sectarian schools."

This vote was taken as an indication that the ultra-conservatives will not have their wish gratified to meet out discipline to Dr. Fosdick, and that the future policies will be mildly conservative, if not liberal in tone.

Amid stirring scenes, the assembly listened to Bryan's plea against evolution and disapproved his resolution. Aged commissioners were seen to wipe tears from their eyes as the commoner urged a return to the faith of their fathers.

"We do not ask that the teaching of evolution as an hypothesis be barred, but merely the teaching of it as proven fact," Bryan said.

ing in Indianapolis as the result of the episode.

Mrs. Margaret Fritch, mother of the prosecuting witness, was on the stand for a long time, and told of the visits that the defendant had made to her home after he had been arrested on the liquor charge here. She stated that on one trip he left $20 and on another trip he left $30 at her home. She said that her son visited with Clevenger over night prior to the day of his first trial when the jury disagreed, following the false testimony given by Fritch.

Herbert Miller, age 20, living south of Rushville, and Russell Beebe of Laurel were witnesses for the state and said that they were visitors at the Fritch home on November 19, when Clevenger came there in company with Frank Wallace, which resulted, the witnesses say, in Fritch getting in the machine and coming to Rushville.

The state used these witnesses to show that Fritch had told a connected story, in which he had testified that it was on this date that Clevenger came and brought him to Rushville and secured a statement to the effect that he did not buy the liquor from him.

Let Well Enough Alone
A few advocates of American meddling in European affairs are arguing that leadership in international affairs must be taken out of the hands of politicians and soldiers and placed in the care of financial experts and economists. Well, now, perhaps; and again, perhaps not. We have a system of representative government in this country, under a constitution that prescribes very carefully how the men who control our international affairs shall be selected. We elect a President who is vested with the power to appoint diplomatic representatives by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and also with the power to negotiate treaties by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. It may be a rather cumbersome system but thus far it has gotten us along pretty well. It has kept us out of trouble sometimes and yet when an emergency has arisen the system has not been too cumbersome to be operative.
We suppose the critics look upon President Harding as a politician while Mr. Wilson was, in their eyes, a statesman. The man who does what you want him to do, in public affairs is a statesman while he who does what you don't want him to do is a mere politician. Mr. Wilson wanted to get us body and soul into the League of Nations. Mr. Harding refuses to get us in by the front door, the side door, the back door or the cellar door. Therefore, our Only well-developed, healthy men and women can enjoy the best in life. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus energy, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women; a plus in their strength. Hollow cheeks fill out. You stop being a calamity-looker. You inspire confidence. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them. Take S. S. S. It contains only pure vegetable medicine ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size is more economical.

international affairs must be taken out of the hands of "politicians". It is our guess that the American people will be pretty well satisfied to go on trusting the men they elect to the Presidency and to the United States Senate. Some of them may make mistakes—all of us make mistakes. But when the Senate has a check on diplomatic appointments and also on the ratification of treaties, the mistakes of any one individual are not going to be very serious in their effects.
International financiers may worry all they like about the leadership of international affairs by "politicians". The great majority of Americans prefer to have our affairs conducted by our kind of "politicians" rather than turn them over to the people who are always worrying because we do not do something heroic to save Europe.

An Intellectual Crook
According to stories that were printed after the recent gathering of editors at the National Capital President Harding, who was present as an editor and not as President, told of an experience he had with an editor some time before. This editor, so the story goes, was pleading with the President to have Congress take some steps to reduce Federal taxes, particularly excess profits taxes and income and surtaxes, and his newspapers at that very hour were clamoring that the minions of capital were proposing to reduce the taxes on the wealth of the country. Mr. Harding is represented as saying, "I would not give a rap for the conscience of a man like that." The whole country will agree with the President. The editor who makes millions by pandering to radicalism and yet pleads for capitalism in private is an intellectual crook.

Legion To Hold Conference For Purpose Of Bringing About Uniformity Of American Flag Rules
SOME MISUNDERSTANDING
Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—A definite and uniform code of regulations with regard to the display of the American flag will be adopted at a conference to be held in Washington, June 14 and 15, it was announced at headquarters of the American Legion.
The meeting will be conducted by the Americanism Commission of the Legion and will be attended by representatives of the Army and Navy and more than fifty leading civic and patriotic organizations.
Confusion has been caused by the multiplicity of rules and regulations established by the army, the navy and various organizations, according to Garland W. Powell, director of the Legion's Americanism commission.
The result has been, he says, that immigrants, children and even adult patriotic citizens have subjected the flag to discourtesies through ignorance and not because of any irreverent feelings.
The Legion's object in holding the conference, according to Powell, is to decide upon a few simple regulations for adoption by all organizations, thereby bringing about a uniformity of rules of the present misunderstanding.

MAKES RECORD BY HIS RAPID RISE

Fact That He Had Fewer Enemies Put Stanley Baldwin In Lead For Post Of Bonar Law's Successor
PARLIAMENTARY DEBATOR
Baldwin Is Most Available Man Among Conservatives For Carrying On Law's Policies
By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for United Press)
Stanley Baldwin is the least known of the leaders of the conservative party and has established a record in British politics by his rapid rise.
He has fewer enemies than any of the other contestants for the premiership, which fact put him in the lead for the post of Bonar Law's successor.
Baldwin was president of the board of trade in the Lloyd George coalition ministry, a position corresponding to Secretary of Commerce at Washington. When the conservative revolt against Lloyd George occurred last year, Baldwin stuck by Bonar Law while his political seniors among the conservatives such as Austen Chamberlain and Sir Robert Horne remained with the coalition.
When Bonar Law carried the general election, Baldwin was rewarded for his loyalty by being made chancellor of the Exchequer, which is regarded as including the vice premiership. He is an admirable parliamentary debator, and he showed great force of character by his handling of the negotiations for refunding the British war debt to America.
When Baldwin returned to London from his visit to Washington last January, with the debt agreement in his pocket, he was opposed at first by Bonar Law himself. But Baldwin finally won over his chief and the settlement was accepted by the British cabinet.
Baldwin is the most available man among the conservatives, for carrying on Bonar Law's policies. He is a progressive, and very Democratic. He receives visitors in a flannel shirt and puffs his pipe during the conversation as if it were a laborite instead of a conservative leader.
The most dangerous rival of Baldwin for the premiership has been Lord Curzon. But Curzon's place in the House of Lords handicapped him. All the vital political action in Great Britain occurs in the Commons, and the prime minister by his handling of the negotiations ought to be a member of the lower house for that reason, and that is not an advantage while the labor party is pressing so hard for power.

Players Feel Chances at World's
Are Being Blown by Interference
From The OfficeBy HENRY L. FARRELL
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, May 23—Down in sixth place, under even the poor Brooklyn Robins, the Cincinnati Reds are one of the big disappointments of the season, and the players feel it.

Like the Chicago White Sox the Reds have come far from living up to pre-season expectations. They finished second last year and they were expected to be the big contender this year.

The players on the club are grumbling and it was learned today that Pat Moran may be removed as manager of the club when it returns home after a bad invasion of the east.

Jack Daubert is being mentioned as Moran's successor and the players apparently are for him as much as they could be for any manager. The players don't blame Moran so much for what he does as what he does not have the chance to do.

The Reds feel that they had a chance to get into the world's series this fall, and that it is being blown by interference "from the office."

Pat Moran, according to two of the players, gets a telegram from Cincinnati every morning telling him whom to pitch that day and whom to play in the other positions.

It was a well known fact that "board of directors" used to run the Reds during the Fleishman days, but it was thought in more recent years that Pat Moran had the freedom of playing his own hand.

It is understood that Moran is sore on his job, and he has been acting like it since the club has been here.

Chicago, May 23—Negotiations for purchase of the Boston Red Sox by interests represented by Dr. Herbert Drury and E. M. Schoenborn, Columbus, Ohio, are under way, it was reported here today.

Drury and Schoenborn held a long conference here with U. J. "Sport" Harriman, part owner of the Red Sox and the trio also called Johnson, president of the American League into session. Johnson said he could make no comment on the proposal deal.

The Columbus men returned home after letting it be known that negotiations are still on. Harry Frazee, president of the Sox is understood to be holding for $1,000,000 for the franchise, team and park.

Finding Some Hard Spots

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, May 23—While there is no reason to believe that the New York Giants have blown any of their many chances to win their third straight National League pennant, the early part of the season indicated that McGraw may not make the expected runaway in the championship race.

Instead of being "in" by mid-July, as many rabid New York fans predicted when the Giants were making monkeys of the Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia clubs, the contrary may result and the world's champions may not run out into real form until they have been boiled out by the June sun.

The formidable clubs from the west on their first invasion of the east found the Giant pitching staff in a fragile state and unless warm weather brings some form out of veteran arms, the same weakness will handicap the Giants all through the race.

Pittsburgh was the only National League club to get away on its right foot according to expectations, and the Pirates are even doing better than was anticipated. Man for man, the Pirates are almost as strong as the Giants, and if McKechnie gets anything from his pitchers the National League pennant might not be decided until late fall.

Jack Bentley, the $65,000 Baltimore pitcher, was a big disappointment to the Giants. He reported overweight and out of shape, and McGraw resorted to his pet policy of teaching his pitchers by making them take a good beating when they need it.

Some very good critics who watched Bentley in the International League predicted that McGraw would have to get Bentley to get results from him and that he would also have to pick spots for his prize hurler. Jack Dunn, it is said, made a pitcher out of Bentley by using him against clubs against which he was particularly effective, and against the ones who could get him he used him on first base.

While McGraw has lost much of the fire that used to decorate the Giants with pugilistic trimmings, he still gets out the big stick when the occasion demands. He disciplined three of his stars in the training camp and when "Rosey" Ryan failed to deliver in the early season, he suspended him until he could get in shape.

It was not the old umpire-baiting, battling McGraw, who said, "after Casey Stengel was suspended for ten days some time back for fighting with Weinert, a Philadelphia pitcher."

"Fights on the field do not help the club or the game. If necessary, they should be staged off the field. Stengel's suspension weakened the Giants. The delivery that Stengel thought was meant for a 'bean' was a slow ball, and surely he shouldn't have seen any danger or ill-intent in that. I regret that our man was the aggressor."

That was the new McGraw, and when evidence of such a transformation in temperament is at hand it is not too much to expect that Gil Dobie may smile some day and admit that he has some good football players at Cornell.

Pilots and Mechanics Enter Into Contest to Get Ready For 500-
Mile Memorial Day Race

JOE BOYER DEFEATS GERMAN

Indianapolis, May 23—One more week before the starting bomb of the annual 500 mile race at the speedway goes flying high into the air and long lines of spinning motor cars, the speediest products of three nations, go racing down the track.

Today the pilots and mechanics, particularly those of cars which arrived late, entered on the feverish last week of preparations.

Elimination trials begin Saturday and every effort is being made by drivers to get their cars in the pink of condition for the battle for first line positions.

There are only three front row positions, and with such headliners as Ralph DePalma, Jimmy Murphy, Joe Boyer, Howdy Wilcox and Dario Resta in the fight for front row, tonight the contest for post positions will be keen.

The most thrilling of all pre-race events to date was the short, hard fought and decisive two lap battle between Joe Boyer and Ralph DePalma.

built Packard and Christian Lautenschlager at the wheel of a German Mercedes.

Lautenschlager, regarded as the ace of German pilots, was thundering around the track at a 97 mile clip when Joe Boyer slipped out with his Mercedes blue devil and in a battle with the German ace set a new lap record of 1:24.8, an average of 106.4 miles an hour.

The Score Board

Babe Ruth's eighth homer, with Dugan on in the 15th inning gave the Yanks a 3-1 victory over the White Sox.

The Giants knocked Haines out of the box in the first inning before one out was made, and scored six runs, which helped them to a 7-3 victory over the Cards.

After the Robins had scored all their runs off Donohue and Keck in the first three innings, Snor Laque went in and stopped the fireworks, but the Robins lost 9-0.

Tris Speaker's home run in the first inning started his Indians on the way to a 5-2 victory over the Red Sox.

Baby Doll Jacobson got a homer and three singles and helped the Browns beat the Senators 12 to 7.

THE HOME GARDEN

FOR THE WINTER BOUQUET

A plant of comparatively recent introduction to gardens and which has been seized upon for greenhouse decoration and for cut flowers is the annual statice or sea lavender. Under greenhouse cultivation it throws up immense stems of its peculiarly branching clusters of cup-shaped lavender, rose, white and pale yellow flowers.

The remarkable quality of this plant is that its flower clusters dry for winter bouquets remarkably well. They have been a feature of flower shows and cut-flower window displays all winter both freshly cut and dried.

The catalogues list them among annuals as Statice sinuata, in three colors, and Statice Bonduelli, which is the pale yellow form. They are almost identical in growth. They come from the shores of the Mediterranean, the sinuata varieties from the European shores and the yellow from the Algerian coast.

They form rosettes of leaves upon the ground, and from the center of these rosettes the flower stems with their clouds of small blooms arise.

They like a rather light soil and plenty of hot sun. While they are biennial in their native state, they are grown as annuals, and from seed started early will bloom in late summer. If an unusual and very ornamental plant is desired which will do double duty both for garden display and for winter bouquets, these new statice are well worth trying. The seed should be started at once in order to give them as long a growing season as possible.

The Russian statice, Statice Sivori, is an oldtime garden annual which has been neglected for many years but is again coming back, and strangely enough as a greenhouse plant, although it is an easily grown garden annual. It differs from the sinuata type in having long, branching spikes closely set with tiny rose pink flowers. The leaves lie flat upon the ground, somewhat resembling a plantain seed spike until the flowers expand and the branches develop. It is a very unusual appearing plant and very decorative for cutting, especially when arranged with the loosely branched lavender varieties.

COOPERATION IS AIM OF NEW MOVE

D. H. Blair Has Inaugurated A New Program In Issuance Of Internal Revenue Bulletin

PRESENTS LATE RULINGS

Promptness Which Tax Information Now Is Available Will Enhance Value Of Bulletin Services

The following statement is issued by M. Bert Thurman, Collector of Internal Revenue of Indiana.

As a material step in promoting cooperation between the Government and taxpayers, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, David H. Blair has inaugurated a new program in the issuance of the Internal Revenue Bulletin, which contains decisions and rulings of various tax prohibition questions. The Internal Revenue Bulletin now is issued weekly, presenting to taxpayers the latest rulings and opinions of the Attorney General, Solicitor of Internal Revenue, and Treasury Decisions, dealing with income, sales, capital stock, tobacco, oleomargarine and miscellaneous taxes. In addition, the bulletin contains a great fund of information on tax and prohibition matters.

Supplementing the weekly bulletin the Internal Revenue Bulletin Service consists of a quarterly digest, which will contain, briefed but retaining their full import, the rulings previously published in the weekly bulletins, and semi-annual cumulative bulletin in which will appear in full all new rulings, decisions, etc., published during the preceding six months. The semi-annual bulletins will be issued in July and January.

The promptness with which tax information now is made available to the public will greatly enhance the value of the bulletin service. The weekly bulletin will be issued each Monday. To assure the widest and most expeditious distribution, Commissioner Blair has ordered that subscribers on the Pacific Coast and all points west of the Mississippi be given preference in the mailing of the bulletin.

The Internal Revenue Bulletin Service now has more than 20,000 subscribers and under the new plan of Commissioner Blair it is expected the subscription list will be doubled.

Information concerning the service, which is furnished on a subscription basis, may be obtained from the Bureau of Internal Revenue, or Superintendent of Public Documents, Governments Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

U. P. CHURCH OPENS ITS ANNUAL SESSION

Conference At Buffalo Will Decide Whether To Reduce Executive Boards Of Denomination

TO CONTINUE FOR TEN DAYS

Buffalo, N. Y., May 23.—With its moderator, Dr. J. Kelly Giffen, more than 3,000 miles away, the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church will open its annual session this evening in the Second United Presbyterian church here. Rev. Charles P. Proudfoot of Xenia, Ohio, moderator's alternate, will preside.

Dr. Giffen was elected moderator at the meeting in Cambridge, O., last May, but returned to his work in Khartoum, The Sudan, in September, making it impossible for him to be here for to night's opening session. Dr. Charles P. Proudfoot, until recently pastor of a Des Moines, Iowa church, was chosen to preside until the election of the new moderator tomorrow. It is expected sessions of the assembly will continue about ten days. Its most interesting business will be to decide whether to reduce the number of executive boards of the denomination.

Churches in all parts of the United States, as well as in three countries in Africa and one in India, will be represented. The denomination is a leader in foreign mission work, having the largest per capita donations for this purpose of any American sect.

Many Horses in Circus

People who love horses, ponies and dogs (and there are few of us who do not) may be interested in the news that this year Gentry Bros. Famous Shows combined with Jas. Patterson's Big 4-Ring Trained Wild Animal circus are carrying with their famous shows a veterinarian, a highly specialized surgeon and practitioner, who explains to visitors how Gentry Bros. carry 200 ponies on the road and never have ill for any length of time. This is true of the horses and dogs, also to say nothing of the wild animals in the interesting arena of the show.

The veterinary surgeon invites stockmen to visit him at the circus grounds in Rushville on Thursday May, 24, when this combined circus comes to town.

"The Buster"—At Mystic

You will see Dustin Farnum in the role of a woman tamer in his latest William Fox production, "The Buster," which comes to the Mystic Theatre today only.

It is a novel and fascinating part and the robust movie idol acquires himself in a fashion that will thrill the most blasé of picturegoers. "The Buster" tells the story of the rough, handsome Westerner, who is called upon to tame a beautiful, but temperamental society belle from New York. How he tackles the most difficult of tasks and how he succeeds, goes to the making of an interesting picture.

The direction of the photoplay was in the hands of Colin Campbell, and the adaptation of the story by William Patterson. White was made by Jack Strimling.

The photoplay reproduces many picturesque nature "sets" that were "shot" in the American Rockies.

The director has artistically brought to the fore the infectious smile, the robustness of Farnum, and wrought them into the very essence of the picture.

In the supporting parts are Doris Pavin, Frances McDonald, Gilbert Holmes and Lucille Watson.
